(Kuala Lumpur, 18th) The Ministry of Energy and Natural Resources believes that the Zoo and the Fixed Wildlife Exhibition (ZPT) Center as commercial institutions should not continue to rely on government funding.

The Minister Datuk Sam Suan Nuya pointed out that this is because the government has taken various measures to assist operators affected by the movement control order.

Sansuannuya issued a statement in response to the financial crisis facing the National Zoo.

players and the Malaysian Zoo and Aquarium Association (MAZPA) to re-examine the operating regulations under the Wildlife Protection Act to ensure the sustainability of the zoo and the welfare of animals.

He pointed out that an improvement strategy will be drafted for this and everything will be implemented after the decision is finalized.

"This is very important because their operations not only require professional knowledge, but also involve high operating and development costs."

On the other hand, the Minister also pointed out that in June this year, the Ministry had allocated a Wildlife Welfare Fund of RM1.3 million to the National Zoo through the Malaysian Peninsula Wildlife Conservation and National Parks Agency (PERHILITAN).

This fund is to help pay for animal food expenses in response to the impact of the new crown pneumonia epidemic.

He said that the ministry has introduced several short-term plans to ensure that the relevant welfare of all zoos and the fixed wildlife exhibition (ZPT) center is guaranteed.

"This includes the allocation of RM10.2 million under the Wildlife Welfare Care Fund to the affected zoos and immobilized wildlife exhibition centers in order to reduce their operating burden."

He pointed out that 21 wild animal immobilization exhibition centers have already applied, and the fund has been distributed to them in stages starting in May.

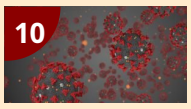

"Except for the economic revitalization package, (the government also) extended the 15% monthly electricity bill discount of the Wildlife Immobilization Exhibition Center for up to 6 months."

Sam Suannuya said that the ministry also distributed 15 tons of donated items from the Malaysian Quarantine and Inspection Service (MAQIS) including meat, vegetables and fruits to the Wildlife Immobilization Exhibition Center and provided technical assistance to the center.
